Newell spent the weekend making jam with Michelle, and it turned into such a special, feel good moment. As they worked together, Newell shared that it reminded him of watching his grandmother make jam when he was younger, a memory that clearly still means a lot to him. It was a beautiful mix of past and present, with laughter, stories, and the simple joy of creating something together.

After a busy morning pitching in around the whare, windows sparkling and everything fresh and tidy, the crew were more than ready for some fun. They piled into the van and headed off to the beach, where the day turned into a little adventure. Lloyd set off on his own treasure hunt, while everyone else kicked back, soaked up the sunshine, and made the most of the warmer weather while it's still around.
