Guess whos back.

Sunday the 5th kicked off with excitement in the air as 32 of our Greenways whānau gathered at the depot, ready for an adventure!

After piling into two minibuses, the crew set off for the International Kiwi Hotel, buzzing with anticipation for what was to come. A quick overnight stay and then bright and early alarms were ringing for a 4:30am airport check-in. Sleepy eyes, but big smiles!

As the group prepared to board the plane, one of our travellers made a last minute call that flying just wasn't his thing fair enough. With Wendy stepping in to bring him home safely, our crew of 32 became 30, and the journey continued.

Touching down in Sydney, it was straight into explorer mode! Bags were dropped at the hotel and the crew split off, some heading out for a delicious lunch with a stunning view of the Sydney Opera House, while others wandered the streets, soaking up all the sights and city vibes.

Excitement levels hit an all time high as boarding time for the cruise rolled around. Once on board, it was all about settling in and exploring 18 floors of adventure meant some of our crew were smashing over 20,000 steps a day, who needs the gym?

With endless food, activities, and entertainment, there was never a dull (or hungry) moment. From dazzling shows and movie nights to relaxing spa time, giant Jenga battles, and dressing up for fancy dinners, there was something for everyone.

And one of the highlights was watching Ray Elvis, and Callum take to the stage and sing their hearts out! The crowd loved it, and their talent truly stole the show. What a way to kick off an unforgettable trip!
